Flavius Studius

(fl. 5th Century)

BRIEFING

Flavius Studius (Greek: Φλάβιος Στούδιος; fl. 5th century AD) was a statesman of the Eastern Roman Empire.

BIOGRAPHY

He served as consul in 454 together with Aetius (not to be confused with the magister militum Aetius). He was a devout Christian and in 463 in Constantinople founded the Monastery of Stoudios (although he may have founded it before he became consul).